Summary of Progress Completed Since Last Report: The Plan to expand the Office of Diversity and Inclusion has been discussed by the VPs and the Academic Senate. ODI is vetting the proposal as well. You have the Proposal.

Campus-wide planning needs to focus on attracting and retaining URM faculty, staff and administrators; attracting and retaining URM students; and closing the achievement gap. Academic Personnel Services (APS), ODI and the Graduation Rate Improvement Group are all working on these issues.

List of Key Milestones Achieved: None since the last report.

Comments on challenges, lessons learned, and/or resource needs: The primary challenge for the ODI proposal is funding and whether or not that funding will require reallocation. There are also concerns about the structure of the office, staffing responsibilities and discretionary monies.

Forecast of Subsequent Plans for the Upcoming Months: The important milestone for the ODI proposal is the 2011-2012 base-budget proposal due to the UBC in early spring.
